

Head of Mountain Sunday School Arrested for Making Moonshine

But His Neighbors Can See No Crime and Will Welcome Him Back From Jail.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Sept. 19 (Copyright).—Franklin Smith, Superintendent of the Mountain Sunday school at Rosedale, in the heart of the Tennessee mountain region, and former President of the Sullivan County Sunday School Association, may be a moonshiner. He was arrested with a companion far back in the Holston Mountains operating a big still and frankly admitted it when the revenue agents appeared.

Smith very likely will get a jail sentence when he is brought to trial, having been caught headhanded. But whatever happens, his standing in the community will be unimpaired. And there is the secret of the mountain men's philosophy. When he returns to take charge of his Sunday School his friends will welcome him with open arms. In the view of the mountain people he committed no crime—he simply made a little liquor for his own use.

The native mountaineers do not always condone making illicit whiskey to sell. Those who do it are considered well down in the social scale. But when Smith was arrested he told his captors that he was making it so that he might have a supply on hand "for the boys when they drop round in evenin'." This declaration gave him a clean bill of health at home.

The revenue officers insist, however, that Smith and his partner, Jim Booher, have been letting part at least of their product go to professional runners. This the pair vigorously deny.

"Tain't right and we ought not to stand for it," declared "Uncle" Charlie Mercer, a close friend of Smith to-day. "Thar wuz Frank up thar mindin' his own business and long comes these revenue men and shove him in jail. For what? Nothin' at all. We folks had nuthin' to say about this here Prohibition. It wuz shoved off on us. We ain't tryin' to tell furmurs what to do, and how do they get the right to tell us? I hev the right to do what I please with my own crops."

Chris Peters and other members of the community endorsed Smith's stand. They made it plain that if he goes to jail his place in the Sunday School will be kept open for him. "We'd be pretty ones to turn him down for nothin'," said Peters. "Frank's one of the best fellows in these hills and nobody can say a word against him. He drank a little, of course. Most mountain folk do. But that never hurts so long as they don't get drunk. The people grow their corn and feel they have a right to use it any way they please without be-

GIRL, 16, SAVES 5 FROM DROWNING

Catherine Doty Is Heroine When Car Goes Into River.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Catherine Doty, sixteen, last night saved five companions from drowning when an auto in which they were riding was forced over an embankment into the Ausable River. The glass sides of the limousine held the rushing waters from the occupants of the car. Catherine, an expert swimmer, seized Freda Vidaver, an infant, and carried her to shore. Then she returned and took off Yetta Vidaver, a child. On her third trip through the waters she rescued Helen Doty, her younger sister. When the children were saved she returned to the wreck and helped M. Vidaver, driver, and his wife, both injured, to the shore. Vidaver suffered a broken arm, while his wife was badly cut and bruised. The children, with the exception of Freda Vidaver, who was cut about the head, were unharmed.

TWO BANKS GRANT LOAN TO GERMANY

London and Dutch Interests Furnish Guarantee for Belgium.

PARIS, Sept. 19 (Associated Press).—Adequate guarantees for the payment of the six months' Treasury notes to Belgium have been arranged by Rudolph Havenstein, President of the Reichsbank, in negotiations with the Bank of England and probably with a Dutch bank. It was definitely indicated in Reparation Commission circles here to-day.

It is not unlikely that Belgium will report to the Reparation Commission at that body's regular meeting to-day that it has come to a satisfactory arrangement with Germany over the guarantee of payment of the notes. It depends only on whether the German reply reaches Brussels in time to be communicated to Paris before the session of the commission begins.

The only possibility of failure would be the refusal of France to accept this new arrangement.

There Are Few Finer Experiences

in business than close family life.

The examples of them are full of inspiration. New York has always been proud of its Stewarts, Greeleys, Morgans, Claffins, Juilliards, Dodges, Harpers and a long line of others.

This business dates back to 1861, and its sole owners are the father and son. It is a far better business because of daily individual direction by its active owners, who superintend it at home and abroad.

We are receiving a great abundance of new goods every day.

Our buyers in foreign countries have done well and returned home.

There is much of newness to see now.

More than 1,300 new Frocks to choose from. More than fifty of the season's most desirable modes. In four under-price groups, divided like this:

$5 $10 $15 $20

EVERY Autumn, just about this time, we plan to have a sale of dresses that will satisfy the needs of hundreds of women who want good frocks at moderate prices. It is not always easy to find GOOD dresses to sell underprice—dresses that are new in fashion feature, of worthy fabrics, and well made; but we always find something worth while—something a step ahead of the usual sale opportunity. Here it is—ready for an early start on Wednesday morning.

Remarkable at $5

"THE best dresses at this price to be found anywhere," says the report in detail. Think of it—130 fresh, new dresses to go at $5. Who could buy the material or that? . . . Poirer twill of a good grade; crepe de chine that is worthy the name; and the ever-practical wool jersey. Three excellent models—well made, wantable.

Third under-price $10

MORE than 300 new frocks to choose from at $10. Ten models, widely varied—of the new tricosham, Canton crepe, and Poirer twill. Good frocks for street wear; for business for every day use, when a good-looking, well-made dress is wanted at a very moderate cost. Sizes in this group are 34 to 44.

This $15 Group

"FAR superior to many dresses that we saw at $14.75 and $15," says the report. Consider the variety—more than 500. Consider the models—fully twenty-five. And bear in mind that all of these materials are amply provided—crepe de chine, Canton crepe, satin, wool jersey, wool Canton, Poirer twill, and crepe-back satin—not forgetting some very lovely black lace dinner dresses.

Better made at $20

A QUANTITY of more than 400; a variety of more than fifteen of the newest Autumn models. Crepe de chine, Canton crepe, crepe-back satin, and some very lovely combinations of lace and Canton.
